TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Combining expertise in subject matter (urban development and territorial regeneration) and process (an interactive design approach), developed and continually refines a teaching method that integrates theoretical aspects with practical laboratory-type experience. Pays particular attention to the following thematic focal points: models for analysis and interpretation of urban policy; a strategic approach to territorial development; policy strategies and design methodologies for urban regeneration. In addition to academic instruction, developed training proposals geared toward institutions and professional organizations interested in developing a territorial approach.
